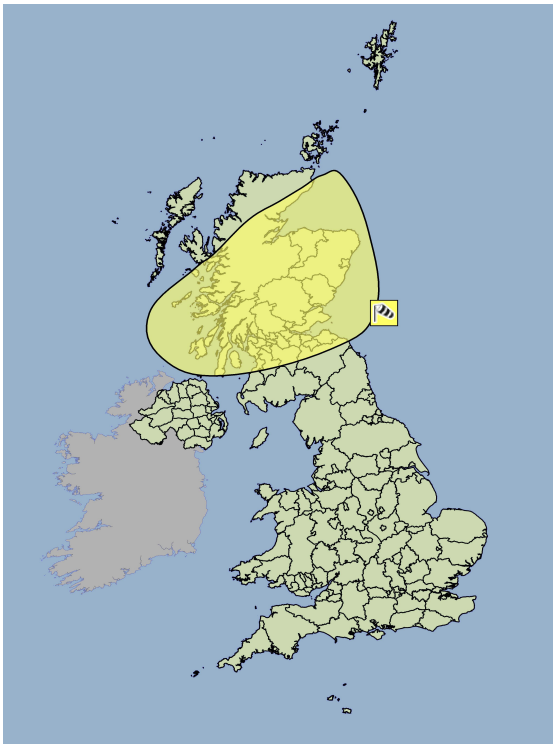
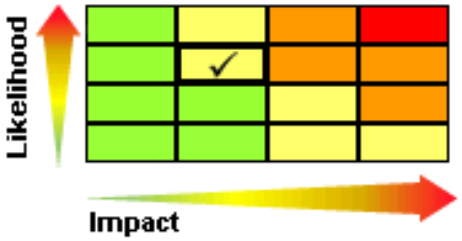
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
A deep area of low pressure is bringing gales and locally severe gales to many northern parts of the UK. Strongest gusts are likely in areas exposed to the west, but isolated gusts of 60-70 mph may occur to the east of high ground at times as well.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Wind

Valid from 13:35 on Mon, 12th Jan 2015 until 16:00 on Mon, 12th Jan 2015

Another rapidly deepening area of low pressure is moving east just to the north of Scotland. Further gusts of 50-60 mph are likely quite widely through the warning area, with gusts as high as 70 mph in western exposure, and possibly to the east of high ground. Winds should gradually ease through the rest of this afternoon

The public should be aware of the risk of disruption to transport.

This warning has been updated to remove northern England and Northern Ireland where the winds have now eased somewhat.
